

24. (New) The image decoding device of claim 23, wherein said object display speed information allows for an independent object display speed for each object.